The reasons for this are:

- This will save on GP appointment time and allow them to deal with more urgent problems.
- Community Pharmacists are best placed to help and advise the public regarding suitable treatments for minor ailments.
- Paracetamol is approximately four times more expensive when prescribed on the NHS compared to when it is purchased in pharmacies or supermarkets.
- Paracetamol is widely available from all supermarkets and pharmacies at a very low cost.
- Patients can keep a small supply of paracetamol in their medicine cabinet at home so that they are able to manage their minor ailments at home.
- The NHS belongs to everybody and the CCG must ensure that its resources are used in the best possible way for all patients.
